On 1 June 2007 the REACH legislation (Registration Evaluation Authorisation of Chemicals) entered into force within the EU. REACH is a regulation aimed at all producers of chemical substances, based in the EU, importers introducing chemical substances into the EU as well as all companies using or handling chemical substances. The European regulation is legally binding on all EU Member states without having to become domestic law.

Explanation of REACH

- In accordance with the definition of REACH we as a developer, producer and seller of Emba-Protec packaging, assume the role of a so called “down-stream user” within the REACH hierarchy, since we neither prepare nor produce such substances ourselves, nor purchase these outside the EEC.
- Since Emba-Protec GmbH & Co. KG acts solely as a “down-stream user”, there is no duty to register according the REACH legislation.
- Our suppliers are requested to inform us should they use or start using relevant substances of the list of candidates.
- According to the current information, we can assure that the products distributed by us do not contain any substances of very high concern, according to REACH from a threshold value of 0.1 mass percentage in relation to the product weight.
